Is it difficult to imagine your child sitting at a desk in school? What will it take to prepare your child for a full day of school? Change can present a challenge if you are not prepared. Change can also be exciting when you know what lies ahead. You will have the opportunity to hear from youth with various vision impairments who are in high school and beyond; they will tell their stories and offer the opportunity for you to ask questions. After the panel presentation, Dr. Smith will facilitate the group discussion.
